In Search of Arts Instructors

In search of dance and/or drama instructors, who, ideally, sing and practice progressive ways of cultivating creativity in children—such as, non-violent communication, games to foster healthy self-expression, independence and empowerment, etc. They would be helping my MATI team to create an afterschool arts program that engages the students and ignites their enthusiasm and creativity. Using themes and issues of the students' lives (like bullying, fitting in, friendships, etc.) the team of teachers will guide them in putting together drama scenes, choreographing dances, writing, composing, and performing original songs. Projects may include performances in school and in the community, recording CDs, DVDs, and putting together a full musical theatre production. The overall vision is to empower the children and, with these creative skills, to nourish their families and the Bester community. Bester Community of Hope is spearheading the afterschool program. It will involve a commitment of two afternoons a week at Bester Elementary, plus planning time. Salary would range from $40 - $50 per class hour, plus more, depending on the how extensive the program grows. It is to start in the second semester, Jan. 2017. Please contact Michael Tyson, at 301-906-2422 or Michael@Musicwithmichael.com.

HEAL and MDIFF-H Check Presentation

The Maryland International Film Festival - Hagerstown recently presented a check to HEAL of Washington County. The $500 check was part of the proceeds from the 2016 film festival held in Hagerstown March 31-April 3, 2016

According to film festival president Tom Riford, "The Maryland International Film Festival-Hagerstown was excited to partner with HEAL during the 2016 film festival, and distributed part of the festival's proceeds to the non-profit organization."

"HEAL," which stands for Healthy Eating and Active Lifestyles, is a nonprofit that began providing free opportunities in 2013 to Washington County individuals and families to lead them on a healthier path. The creation of this organization directly resulted from a commitment in the Strategic Community Investment Plan (SCIP) "To reduce the health costs in children and adults by from a goal identified in the Strategic Community Impact Plan (SCIP): "Decrease the obesity rate in children and adults by increasing physical activity and healthy eating."

HEAL understands the barriers people face when seeking resources and programs to maintain or improve one's health. A holistic approach is taken for all of HEAL's work, and care is given to create a non-judgmental environment that fosters camaraderie.

Film festival executive director Tracie Hovey said, "In 2016, the film festival screened over 150 films from all over the world. Some of the filmmakers came from Japan, South Korea, Canada, Saudi Arabia, and several other countries." Hovey added, "The film festival is very pleased to give back to the community, and every year donates to local non-profits."

Displays include photographs, letters, artifacts and political memorabilia. The exhibit runs until December 31st.

The new exhibit opens officially on September 10th. Take a self-guided tour of the museum, explore the new exhibit, and participate in political-themed games, crafts and activities! Free for WCHS members, $8 for adults and $5 for children under 16 and seniors over 60. Family discounts available.

Play Ball! Celebrating Sixty Years of Norman Rockwell's "The Oculist"

in the Baer Gallery at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts through October 23, 2016

Since its debut on the cover of Saturday Evening Post on May 19, 1956, Norman Rockwell's painting of The Oculist has been a perennial favorite of baseball fans, young and old. This very special 60th anniversary "focus show" tells the story of how the painting was originally conceived and created, and how it became a treasured highlight of the WCMFA collection. Organized in partnership with the Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, the exhibition includes original documents related to the creation and acquisition of the painting, as well as rarely seen photographs of studio models and compositional stage sets taken by Norman Rockwell himself.

Foon Sham: Sea of Hope II at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts through January 8, 2017

Created in memory of his mother, Catherine Siuhing Yiu Sham, who died from cancer in 2002, Foon Sham's groundbreaking Sea of Hope installation featured a large, elongated object made from laminated blocks of wood, mounted on a pedestal. This central boat-like object was surrounded by small boats, folded from handmade paper by gallery visitors and inscribed with their personal prayers or messages for departed friends and relatives. Each paper boat contained a cone of tea leaves, evoking the Eastern tradition of burning incense in memory of deceased ancestors. Foon Sham described the Sea of Hope project as follows: I made a long, wooden vessel for my mother, who died of cancer in 2002, as a metaphor for her to travel to somewhere peaceful. The tea leaves, which contain anti-oxidants, were used as symbols of cures-hopes. Viewers can participate by writing their messages to their loved ones who also died of cancer, on the paper boats that I provided during the exhibition. As guest artist at the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts, Foon Sham will create Sea of Hope II in the museum's Groh Gallery. The commissioned sculpture will, once again, be accompanied by a fleet of handmade paper boats created, inscribed, and dedicated by museum visitors throughout the period of the exhibition. Organized by the Washington County Museum of Fine Arts, in collaboration with the artist.

Exhibit of Judith Becker Original Paintings at the Berkeley Art Works

Berkeley Arts Council Teaching Artist presents a selection of original watercolor, color pencil, and mixed media works for display in the at the Berkeley Art Works, 116 North Queen Street in Martinsburg. This will be a unique opportunity to see a range of work, much of which has not been exhibited previously in Martinsburg.

The exhibit is on display now through November 5 in the Back Space Gallery. Gallery hours are Wed-Thu 11-5, Fri 11-8, and Sat 11-4. The Berkeley Art Works, a project of the Berkeley Arts Council, is the realization of the long-held dream of the arts community in Martinsburg and Berkeley County West Virginia: to have a community-based arts facility that supports local and regional artists, brings quality arts experiences for the members of the public, and provides a wide range of arts learning experiences for local residents, artists, and artisans.

The Berkeley Arts Council is on the Web at www.berkeleyartswv.org.

HCC releases 2016 edition of the Hedge Apple

Hagerstown Community College will hold a reception for the most recent publication of its literary arts magazine, the Hedge Apple, on Tuesday, Nov. 8, from 6 to 8 p.m., in the Antietam Room in the Student Center.

All contributors to the 2016 Hedge Apple are encouraged to come celebrate and read their original work. The English Club is partnering with the Theater Club to include an open mic session for all interested HCC students. Work written by others will be allowed as long as the speaker has permission to perform the piece. Speakers are limited to three minutes per piece. Prizes will be awarded.

This event is free and is open to the public. Local writers and artists are encouraged to attend. Advance registration is not required. Copies of the Hedge Apple magazine are complimentary for all attendees.

The Hedge Apple was founded in 1999 by Askold Skalsky, a former professor of English and foreign languages at HCC, now retired. The magazine is published once a year by the students and faculty of Hagerstown Community College and features poetry, short fiction, and artwork by HCC students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

Submissions for the next edition of the Hedge Apple will be accepted until January 31, 2017. For more information, visit www.hedgeapplemagazine.com.
